

The first ice skating of the season in Washington. Photo snapped in Rock Creek Park, the capital's winter and summer playground.

National Photo.

Mrs. Louis Este of Newport, R. I., and Sylvanus Stokes, jr., of Washington on the sands at Palm Beach.

Wide World Photo.

Miss Millicent Rogers of Washington and New York, who sailed for Europe on the S. S. Cedric recently.

© P. & A. Photos.

Doug Fairbanks claims to be one of the discoverers of a new lightweight aspirant for the championship crown. The latter's name is Joe Benjamin, and he and Doug are preparing for a little bout, with the genial Charlie Chaplin as referee.

Wide World Photo.

Dr. Caley rector of Church of up his new famous old New York study.

England's film sweetheart—or she might be called "The Mary Pickford of the British Isles"—enjoys the winter sports at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Her screen name is Queenie Thomas.

Wide World Photo.

Jerry, a pretty wise member of the canine family, has been going to school for two years at Malden, Mass. When Jerry misbehaves, he wears a dunce cap and stands in the corner. Elizabeth Steel, his mistress, sits in front of him.

© Underwood & Underwood.

"Doc" White, one of the White House chauffeurs, and his albino squirrel, which he captured on a recent hunting trip. The little freak will be turned over to the Washington Zoo.

National Photo.

The Chicago police department has a system of wireless communication from headquarters to men on their beats. It is possible for the patrolman or mounted officer to catch from the air radio messages from a superior officer, and the appliance is working wonders in apprehension of motor bandits. The messages received cannot be answered.

International.

Barbara Dean, in the Ziegfeld "Frolic," a Washington theatrical attraction for the coming week.

Photo by Alfred Chauncy Johnston.

Grace and sy disciple than Mis of Ted Shawn.